J.B. Bernstein Entertained the Audience at Barbara B Mann Performing Arts Hall

March 11, 2015 Ft. Myers, FL – Headspace Promotions LLC hosted J.B. Bernstein, the real 'Million Dollar Arm' as their second speaker for their Speaking of South Florida Speaker Series with theme 'Meet the Real' at Barbara B Mann Performing Arts Hall on March 4.

J.B. was quoted as saying:

“It was a great honor to be included in the Speaker Series at the Barbara B. Mann Theater in Fort Myers. I hope our story inspires the audience to achieve greatness no matter what adversity they face.”

In addition to the story behind the movie, Million Dollar Arm, J.B. spoke about his marketing expertise, taking chances, and thinking outside-the-box. He is launching a new contest called the Million Dollar Bat. Whereas Million Dollar Arm took two men from India and thrust them into the professional baseball circuit, Million Dollar Bat will feature a contest for U.S. baseball hitters who will cross over to the Indian Premier League (IPL).

“Having heard a lot of buzz regarding J.B. Bernstein, the audience was excited to get the opportunity to hear him live”, said Rob Maier, Partner, Headspace Promotions. “It was great to hear about his new contest and how everything is coming full circle. He brought baseball to India and now he is bringing cricket to the U.S. That’s what America is all about, bringing cultures together.”

Headspace Promotions will be hosting one more event this year – Aron Ralston, outdoor enthusiast and, the real '127 Hours' on April 15. His bio is available on www.speakingofsouthflorida.com, and will be hosted at the Barbara B Mann.
